As founder of the humanist version of sociology, Georg Simmel sent powerful messages that are identified and explained in this book: interpretation - things are often not what they appear to be; change- culture and society evolve over time; interaction - reality is socially constructed; alienation - people define the value of money without taking responsibility for this construction. The volume also examines Simmel's politics, documenting his concern that socialism is treated as merely a political movement and not viewed as a potential form of changed social interaction.

Horst J. Helle studied business administration, sociology and psychology at the University of Hamburg, leading to a Dr.phil. in 1959 and a Habilitation for Sociology in 1967. He held professor positions in Aachen and Wien; and since 1973 he is professor at the Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München, Germany
